Application: CROW Wildlife Rehabilitation Internship in Wildlife and Conservation Medicine (page 1 of 3)

Please initial on the lines next to the statements to indicate you have read and understand the program terms

General Program Overview

_____The Wildlife Rehabilitation Internship is a paid internship where a student's daily activities include providing medical treatments to patients, caring for neonatal wildlife (including assisted alimentation), monitoring anesthesia, venipuncture, administering medications, administering fluids, triage, husbandry, grazing tortoises, diet preparation, daily hospital cleaning, daily outdoor enclosure cleaning, educational programs, public presentations, assisting in animal ambassador program, patient enrichment, daily outdoor grounds upkeep, attending hospital rounds and teaching rounds, rescuing (as needed), releasing wildlife (as needed), and being a leader for other students.

_____Interns will receive a biweekly stipend of $300 and 3 PTO days during the 26 week (6-month) program period.

Program Work Schedule

_____Following an initial training period, interns will work a 5-day work week schedule that would rotate to working the majority of your week in our various neonatal rooms with days assigned to work in our rehabilitation areas and occasional days assigned to work in our ICU. Please understand this schedule may vary depending on patient load and number of students on-site at a given time, to ensure coverage in all areas of the hospital. Following their training period, interns will be expected to assist staff with training additional students in dietary preparation, cleaning protocols, medical charting, and treatments (as assigned by the staff member).

_____Early morning or late evening infant care/feeding, rehabilitation patients, or ICU treatments will be required on a daily basis. Externs will be rotating with other students for these designated care/feeding shifts.

_ _____ Interns are required to present a monthly public presentation at the Visitor Education Center.

_____Attendance to hospital case rounds and student teaching rounds held periodically during the week, may be encouraged or required depending on the rounds discussion.

_____A large percentage of the work at a rehabilitation facility involves cleaning and feeding patients and is labor intensive and will be performed daily. Applicants are to be able-bodied individuals with the ability to lift up to 50 pounds, bend, kneel, and sit / stand for prolonged periods of time.

_____The required number of hours worked daily will vary depending on patient volume and number of students working during accepted program dates. Interns will have 2 days off weekly, either two consecutive days or two days throughout the week, which will be determined based on individual preference.

_____Work days start at 7:00 AM and end when all patients are cared for and the clinic is cleaned. This may vary between 45-65+ hours weekly.
