Application: CROW Clinical Year Veterinary Medicine Externship in Wildlife and Conservation Medicine (page 1 of 3)

Please initial on the lines next to the statements to indicate you have read and understand the program terms

General Program Overview

_____The Clinical Year Veterinary Medicine Externship is an unpaid externship where a student's daily activities include providing medical treatments to patients, caring for neonatal wildlife (including assisted alimentation), assisting in surgery and monitoring anesthesia, venipuncture, administering medications, administering fluids, triage, interpreting radiographs and cytology slides, husbandry, daily hospital cleaning, attending and presenting hospital rounds and teaching rounds, and rescuing/releasing wildlife (as needed).

_____ I understand this program is for clinical year veterinary medicine students only.

Program Work Schedule

_____Following an initial training period, externs will work a 5-day work week schedule that would include assisting veterinary staff with all patient rechecks, assisting with surgery, assisting with patient triage, and working in the ICU. Please understand this schedule may vary depending on patient load and number of students on-site at a given time, to ensure coverage in all areas of the hospital.

_____Early morning or late evening infant care/feeding and ICU treatments will be required on a regular basis. Externs will be rotating with other students for these designated care/feeding shifts.

_____Externs are required to complete a patient case study or topic presentation to receive program completion credit and present to the veterinarians. Hospital staff and other students may also be present for your presentation.

_____Attendance to hospital case rounds and student teaching rounds held periodically during the week, may be encouraged or required depending on the rounds discussion. Externs will be encouraged to present clinical cases during patient rounds.

_____A large percentage of the work at a rehabilitation facility involves cleaning and feeding patients and is labor intensive and will be performed daily. Applicants are to be able-bodied individuals with the ability to lift up to 50 pounds, bend, kneel, and sit / stand for prolonged periods of time.

_____The required number of hours worked daily will vary depending on patient volume and number of students working during accepted program dates. Externs will have 2 days off weekly, either e two consecutive days or two days throughout the week, which will be determined based on individual preference. Individual program dates may have varied weekend days in order to achieve a minimum of 20 working days for program requirements.

_____ I understand this program is a strict 20 working day minimum (or 4 weeks) to receive credit.

_____Work days start at 7:00 AM and end when all patients are cared for and the clinic is cleaned. This may vary between 45-65+ hours weekly.
